

What's Important to Our Family

*With the holidays coming up, it's easy to get sucked into "We should go do that" and plan way too much. This often leaves us frazzled, over committed, and not really enjoying any of the time. This year, let's plan 7 major things you want to do as a family from now through the end of the year. If other things get in the way of these, don't be afraid to say no.
